RE: New TPH London Hub Fee Waiver

CBOE Futures Exchange, LLC (CFE) has introduced a fee waiver to encourage market participants (including brokerage firms, proprietary trading groups and others) to become CFE Trading Privilege Holders (TPHs) and to connect to CFE's London Hub for trading purposes during 2013. CFE will waive the application fee and annual TPH Permit fee for one TPH Permit through the end of 2013 for new TPHs that connect to the CFE communications hub at Equinix LD4 in Slough, England outside of London during 2013 (New TPH London Hub Fee Waiver). The connectivity hub in Slough acts as a gateway for TPHs to connect to CFE's trading infrastructure in Secaucus, New Jersey (at Equinix NY4) as well as to CFE's disaster recovery site in Chicago. It allows TPHs a cost-efficient way to send and receive CFE market data and to execute trades in CBOE Volatility Index (VIX) futures and other products on CFE.

CFE issues two different types of TPH Permits. The first type of TPH Permit is the Order Entry Trading Permit that provides an order entry bandwidth allowance, up to three logins to CFE's trading system and TPH status. The second type of TPH Permit is the Quoting and Order Entry Trading Permit that provides a quoting and order entry bandwidth allowance, up to three logins to CFE's trading system and TPH status. If additional logins and/or bandwidth are required, TPHs must obtain one or more additional TPH Permits, as applicable.

TPHs and TPH applicants should refer to footnotes 4 and 5 of CFE's Fee Schedule for further information regarding the New TPH London Hub Fee Waiver and to CFE Regulatory Circular RG13-004 for further information regarding the London Hub.
